

Prophets of a Future Not our Own

It helps, now and then, to step back and take a long view.
The kingdom is not only beyond our efforts, it is even beyond our vision.
We accomplish in our lifetime only a tiny fraction of the magnificent enterprise that is God's work. Nothing we do is complete, which is a way of saying that the Kingdom always lies beyond us.
No statement says all that could be said.
No prayer fully expresses our faith.
No confession brings perfection.
No pastoral visit brings wholeness.
No program accomplishes the Church's mission.
No set of goals and objectives includes everything.
This is what we are about.

We plant the seeds that one day will grow.
We water seeds already planted, knowing that they hold future promise.
We lay foundations that will need further development.
We provide yeast that produces far beyond our capabilities.
We cannot do everything, and there is a sense of liberation in realizing that.
This enables us to do something, and to do it very well.
It may be incomplete, but it is a beginning, a step along the way, an opportunity for the Lord's grace to enter and do the rest.
We may never see the end results, but that is the difference between the master builder and the worker.
We are workers, not master builders; ministers, not messiahs.
We are prophets of a future not our own.

—Bishop Ken Untener, often attributed to Oscar Romero

Jesus asks today: Who do people say that I am? How do we answer that question goes to the heart of our faith. Can we, like St Peter, say You are the Christ? And how deep is our commitment to this confession of faith?

LITURGY OF THE WORD

Describing the Servant of the Lord, Isaiah emphasizes this total trust in God, even in times of trial and persecution. Saint James calls us to show our faith in action and deeds. Jesus chastises Peter for failing to understand the true purpose of his mission.

Stewardship Reflection

In the second reading today, St. James has harsh words for those who do not put their faith into action. May we be such good stewards of God’s gifts to us that we can never be accused of having “faith that does nothing in practice.”
